REMINDERS

- BioRep requested for any blood collection kits orders to be made no later than August 2nd 2019; as after that date their laboratory staff will enter the collective Italian holiday schedule for the month of August. They will continue processing any blood samples shipped upon arrival, as per protocol, but all other supplies might be delayed. They also suggest to discourage the shipments of dry-ice samples between August 12th and August 16th.
Please double-check your inventory to avoid as much as possible any potential issues and/or delays.
- Could you also check your HDClarity biokit parts to see whether anything is close to expiration. In particular, any kits ordered in 2018 may contain serum tubes that are due to expire on 31 July 2019.
Please could you then check your visit schedule and let us know if anything is going to reach expiry before you will be able to use it.
